To: [redacted]@sbcglobal.net [redacted]@sbcglobal.net]
From: Megan Rushing
Sent: Mon 11/26/2018 1:22:56 PM
Importance: Normal
Subject: RE: [redacted]
Received: Mon 11/26/2018 1:22:00 PM
special-agent-trainee-bulletin-09-18.pdf

Hi [redacted],

Sorry for the delay I was trying to obtain an answer for you.
I'm glad you are feeling better, it sucks that you were ill for the holiday week though. I hope you recover quickly.
Regarding the SAT exam, it appears they give the exam once a year. The cut off dates for This year's applications were September 21st, 2018, for the exams given in October. Next year you must submit your application by September 23rd, 2019, for the exams in October. I've attached the bulletin here. As far as other positions she can/should apply for, have her take a look at the CalHR website and see what positions she qualifies for. I know with a BA she could come in as a Staff Services Analyst or Associate Governmental Program Analyst, it's possible that there are other avenues she might be interested in to get her foot in the door with DOJ and/or the state.

I wish her luck.
Megan

---

From: [redacted]@sbcglobal.net <[redacted]@sbcglobal.net>
Sent: Monday, November 26, 2018 9:06 AM
To: Megan Rushing <Megan.Rushing@doj.ca.gov>
Subject: [redacted]

Good morning, hope you had a nice Thanksgiving. I was sick all last week with a virus. Today is the first day I feel normal. Wondering if I can pick your brain. Any idea when they will test again for SA Trainee? Reason I ask is our daughter will graduate in May/June 2019, from Sac State with a Criminal Justice degree. Also, do you have advise on a position(s) she should apply for to get her foot in the door with the department? Hopefully, I am not bothering you. I know you are always busy.

Thanks

Sent from Mail for Windows 10